QUALITY & CERTIFICATIONS

MEETING THE HIGHEST STANDARDS

LEED certification is the globally recognised standard for measuring building sustainability and is the best way to demonstrate that a building project is truly "green." Achieving LEED Gold Certification confirms that The Offices at One Central meet the highest standards in construction, materials and design.

As an added benefit to the end user, the certification requires the use of energy-saving materials, which will ultimately reduce operating costs for the building and improve occupant health and well-being. The combination of a prime location and high-quality design and construction creates a level of excellence that is representative of the premier international companies for which the offices are intended.
